Christmas with the Constable

Constable Christopher Bates hosted his 11th Annual “Christmas With The Constable” Toy Drive on Thursday, December 4th in Port Arthur. Guests brought toys to benefit the Port Arthur Salvation Army’s Angel Tree Program. Guests also enjoyed fellowship, delicious gumbo, and holiday singing from youth recording artists “The Barnes Boyz” and Constable Bates himself! Constable Bates stated, “I’m honored to have the support of the community with this event for the past 11 years. This is the true meaning of love and family.” Over 100 people attended this year’s event.

An update from your friends at the Ben J. Rogers Regional Visitors Center

As 2025 winds down, we're grateful for the many fall festivals and community gatherings that filled Jefferson County with familiar faces, shared laughter, and the kind of moments that remind us why traditions matter.

This season also brought another meaningful Veterans Day observance ceremony, hosted here at the Visitors Center by Vietnam Veterans Chapter 292. The service honored those who have served this great nation with courage, sacrifice, and unwavering dedication. It was a moving tribute, and we hope you join us on Veteran's Day next year. Looking ahead, we invite the community to mark their calendars for our next observance ceremony on March 29, 2026, in honor of Vietnam Veterans Day, as we once again come together in gratitude and respect for those who gave the ultimate sacrifice.

As the holidays approach, there's no better time to shop small and local, supporting the hometown businesses that give our county its charm, character, and a little extra sparkle you just can't find anywhere else. Be sure to check out the Museum of the Gulf Coast, the Art Museum of Southeast Texas, and the Spindletop Gladys City Boomtown Museum.

These gift shops provide a fantastic array of items that reflect the culture and history of our region. Shopping locally not only helps support these incredible institutions but also ensures your gifts are meaningful and special.

If your family is coming in from out of town, we'd love for them to stop by our Visitors Center! We're here to provide ideas for things to do, places to explore, and events happening in Jefferson County. It's the perfect starting point to make the most of your time here. If they can't make it here, tell them to check us out online at ExploreJeffersonCountyTX.com!

Jefferson County Gives Back

This November, the Jefferson County Tax Office & District Clerk's Office partnered together to host a community Food Drive benefiting the Southeast Texas Food Bank. Thanks to the incredible generosity of those who contributed, the event brought in a total of 608 pounds of food for the Southeast Texas Food Bank. This translates into 506 meals for local families in need. We are proud to work alongside such a compassionate and generous community!

“It takes a village. Every can, every package of food helps someone in need. The representatives from the Food Bank were so appreciative! We are proud to partner with the District Clerk’s Office to raise awareness and do our part to stop anyone from going hungry.”

Create a Healthy Boundaries Checklist

If December feels overwhelming, consider creating a "healthy boundaries checklist." More than a set of tips, it's a simple "flight plan" to help you navigate the season with greater ease. Boundaries protect four things: time, energy, finances, and emotional well-being. If anticipating the holidays brings anxiety, you may fear one of these areas stretches you too far. Decide which events you'll attend and which you'll skip. Set limits on travel, gatherings, dinners out, and gifts. Build in downtime to decompress. Limit conversations that trigger emotional conflict, especially with family. Which boundary will you commit to this season for more calm and control?

Learn to “Read and Work the Room”

A room full of people you don't know can be intimidating, but being able to "read and work the room" at a business gathering will seriously enhance your value as an employee. Here's how to do it: (1) Avoid the panicky "Yikes! I don't know anyone here!" reaction. (2) Take a few minutes to observe conversation topics, body language, and the general mood. This allows you to be more confident, identify influencers, and consider those with whom you may want to build a relationship. (3) Notice the pace and enthusiasm of how people speak. Adjust your tone and body language to fit this flow. (4) Spot who's leading conversations and who people gravitate to. Who's keeping discussions moving? These may be well-networked individuals worth knowing. (5) Approach those you wish to engage with a relevant question, brief comment, or question that adds value, or mention a shared interest. Working a room takes a bit of practice. It's an acquired talent. With experience, you'll discover the power of reciprocal relationships and new opportunities for you and your employer. Social Drinking Pressure and Safe Holiday Travel

None of us like feeling vulnerable to social pressure, especially when avoiding alcohol before a long drive. But it takes more than willpower. Holiday parties that include a manager, an influential coworker, strong group norms, or simply the expectation to "join in" can weaken your resolve and make drinking harder to wave off. Add a bit of after-work fatigue, stress, or that end-of-the-week desire to relax, and you're suddenly underestimating your level of impairment at the end of the evening. Planning ahead is far more effective than relying on moment-to-moment judgment trying to fight these challenges. Choosing a designated driver, arranging a rideshare, or one of the best-ever ideas—bringing a non-alcoholic beverage to keep in hand—will reduce social pressure and help you stay in control of your decisions.

The “Attention Economy” Wants You

Where is your attention going? Michael H. Goldhaber, a physicist and futurist, wrote about "The Attention Economy" in 1997. His argument: human attention, like time, is a limited resource, easily grabbed and manipulated. Being aware of the attention economy can help you improve focus, be more intentional with decisions, and stay in control amid daily digital bombardment. Not managing your attention can leave you vulnerable to interruptions, scattered thinking, and reduced productivity. So awareness is your first power, but it's a continually developing skill. The first step is understanding that your attention is what market forces seek to influence. Your decisions, values, and sense of what matters most all are targets. Recognizing this gives you pause, allows refocusing, and enables choices rather than being pulled into a vortex of agendas. Feeling in control gives you the satisfaction of directing your attention where you want.

UNDERSTANDING HOLIDAY STRESS: CAUSES AND SOLUTIONS

The holiday season, while often filled with joy and celebration, can also be a significant source of stress for many people. Understanding the causes of holiday stress and finding effective solutions can help you enjoy this special time of year more fully.

CAUSES OF HOLIDAY STRESS

Several factors contribute to holiday stress. The pressure to meet expectations, whether self-imposed or from others, can be overwhelming. Financial strain from gift-giving and travel expenses adds to the burden. Additionally, the disruption of routines and the demands of social gatherings can lead to fatigue and anxiety.

SOLUTIONS FOR MANAGING HOLIDAY STRESS

Managing holiday stress involves a combination of planning, self-care, and realistic expectations. Here are some strategies to consider:

- Set a Budget: Plan your holiday spending in advance to avoid financial stress. Stick to your budget and consider homemade gifts or experiences instead of expensive presents.
- Prioritize Self-Care: Make time for activities that relax and rejuvenate you, such as reading, taking a walk, or practicing meditation.

- Plan Ahead: Create a schedule to manage your time effectively. Prioritize tasks and delegate responsibilities when possible.
- Practice Mindfulness: Stay present and focus on enjoying the moment rather than worrying about the future or dwelling on the past.
- Set Boundaries: Learn to say no to activities or events that cause unnecessary stress. It's okay to prioritize your well-being.

By understanding the causes of holiday stress and implementing these solutions, you can reduce anxiety and enhance your enjoyment of the season. Remember, the holidays are about connection and joy, so take steps to ensure they remain a positive experience for you and your loved ones.

MINDFULNESS TECHNIQUES TO STAY CALM DURING THE HOLIDAYS

The holiday season can be a whirlwind of activities and emotions, making it easy to feel overwhelmed. Practicing mindfulness can help you stay grounded and calm amidst the chaos, allowing you to enjoy the festivities more fully.

MINDFUL BREATHING

Mindful breathing is a simple yet powerful technique to bring your focus back to the present moment. Take a few minutes each day to sit quietly and focus on your breath. Inhale deeply through your nose, hold for a moment, and exhale slowly through your mouth. This practice can reduce stress and increase relaxation.

BODY SCAN MEDITATION

Body scan meditation involves paying attention to different parts of your body, noticing any sensations or tension. Lie down comfortably, close your eyes, and slowly bring your awareness to each part of your body, starting from your toes and moving up to your head. This technique promotes relaxation and body awareness.

GRATITUDE JOURNALING

Keeping a gratitude journal can shift your focus from stress to appreciation. Each day, write down three things you are grateful for. This practice can enhance your mood and help you maintain a positive outlook during the holidays.

MINDFUL EATING

During holiday meals, practice mindful eating by savoring each bite and paying attention to the flavors and textures of your food. This can help you enjoy your meals more and prevent overeating.

Incorporating mindfulness techniques into your daily routine can help you navigate the holiday season with greater ease and enjoyment. By staying present and focused, you can reduce stress and create more meaningful holiday experiences.

COMFORTING HERBAL TEA BLENDS FOR RELAXATION

- 1 tablespoon dried lemon balm leaves

These herbal tea blends offer a simple and natural way to relax during the busy holiday season. Enjoy them as part of your self-care routine to help manage stress and promote a sense of calm.

GENTLE YOGA FLOW TO RELIEVE HOLIDAY TENSION

The holiday season can be a busy and stressful time. Incorporating a gentle yoga flow into your routine can help alleviate tension and promote relaxation. This sequence is designed to calm the mind and ease the body.

MOUNTAIN POSE (TADASANA)

Begin by standing tall with your feet hip-width apart. Ground your feet into the floor, engage your core, and relax your shoulders. Take a few deep breaths to center yourself.

CAT-COW STRETCH

Move to all fours on your mat. Inhale as you arch your back and lift your head and tailbone (Cow Pose). Exhale as you round your spine and tuck your chin to your chest (Cat Pose). Repeat for 5-10 breaths.

CHILD'S POSE (BALASANA)

From all fours, sit back on your heels and stretch your arms forward, resting your forehead on the mat. Breathe deeply and hold for 5-10 breaths, allowing your body to relax.

SEATED FORWARD BEND (PASCHIMOTTANASANA)

Sit with your legs extended in front of you. Inhale and lengthen your spine, then exhale as you fold forward, reaching for your feet. Hold for 5-10 breaths, feeling a gentle stretch in your back and legs.

CORPSE POSE (SAVASANA)

Lie flat on your back with your arms at your sides, palms facing up. Close your eyes and focus on your breath, allowing your body to fully relax. Stay in this pose for 5-10 minutes.

This gentle yoga flow can be practiced daily to help relieve holiday tension and promote a sense of calm. Remember to listen to your body and modify poses as needed to suit your comfort level.
