oversee state historical programs. Three years later, in 1956, county historical survey committees were created in Texas to carry out preservation work at the local level. See the Texas Historical

MONTGOMERY COUNTY HISTORICAL COMMISSION NEWS

The Montgomery County Commissioners Court has approved a new Montgomery County Historical Marker Program sponsored by the Montgomery CHC to recognize historical structures and sites throughout their County and which will commemorate diverse topics of local and regional interest.

Larry Foerster, chairman of the County Historical Commission, explained that the marker program will complement and supplement the ongoing state historical marker program sponsored by the Texas Historical Commission. This county marker program will feature structures and sites that have historical significance at the local level, but may not otherwise be significant enough to qualify for the Texas historical marker. Foerster went on to explain that presently the THC staff is overwhelmed with requests for state markers, and it is getting increasingly difficult to get an application approved for a state marker. As a result, more and more Texas counties are developing their own county historical marker programs. Walker County has had such a program for years, and Harris County recently started its own county historical marker program.

Foerster emphasized that this marker program is not designed to replace the Texas historical marker program. The Montgomery County Historical Commission will continue to encourage applications for state markers when they are historically significant to the State of Texas and their region. Furthermore, just like state markers, the applications for the county markers will still require support primary and secondary sources to accurately document the historical significance of the topic, and will be critically reviewed by the County Historical Commission.

The county markers will be available in three sizes for mounting on a wall or on a post, with prices ranging from $525 to about $2,000. It will be produced by the Southwell Company in San Antonio, the same company that produces the Texas historical marker along with numerous other county historical markers.

At the reception Darlene shared her retirement plans include moving to the Hill country. We wish her well in her retirement, and thank her for her many contributions to historic preservation in our community.

PRESERVATION TEXAS 2015 STATE LEGISLATIVE ADVOCACY AGENDA

Preservation Texas has established three legislative priorities for the 2015 Texas legislative session. Collectively, these agency-driven priorities create a cohesive set of public investments and private incentives that provide the basis for a transformative approach to community redevelopment statewide through historic preservation.

1. Fully fund the Historic Courthouse Preservation Program
2. Uncap Revenue from the Sporting Goods Sales Tax (SGST)
3. Protect the New State Historic Preservation Tax Credit

TEXAS HISTORIC PRESERVATION TAX CREDIT WORKSHOP

Tuesday, December 9, 2014 - 10:00am to 2:30pm

JW Marriott Houston Downtown, 806 Main Street, Houston Texas 77002

Texas' new state tax credit for rehabilitating historic commercial buildings goes into effect on January 1, 2015. The new 25 percent state historic tax credit, widely considered to be one of the most effective historic investment incentives in the nation, can be combined with the existing 20 percent federal historic rehabilitation tax credit. Whether utilizing one or both of the credits, these incentives can significantly assist the financing of historic rehabilitation projects.

Preservation Houston will introduce the Texas Historic Preservation Tax Credit during a workshop for developers, architects, Realtors, investors, community leaders and any other interested individuals on Tuesday, December 9. Presenters include Texas Historical Commission's Sharon Fleming and Valerie Magolan, Anna Mod of SWCA Environmental Consultants and tax credit strategist Ben Dupuy, plus a variety of developers who can discuss the practical application of the tax credits to historic rehabilitation projects. Breakout sessions will allow participants to discuss small- to large-scale projects.

Admission is $75 per person ($65 for Preservation Houston members) and includes lunch. Reservations and advance payment are required; reserve your seats online now.

PAUL TANNER'S PASSION FOR ARCHEOLOGY REMEMBERED
JCHC MINI-MUSEUM
DECEMBER, 2014

Each year the Texas Historical Commission, along with the Jefferson County Historical Commission (JCHC), celebrate October as Texas Archeology Month. It is also appropriate that this is the month we are celebrating the life of former member Paul Tanner who passed away in January of this year. For many years, Paul served as the Archeology Chair for the JCHC.

Paul, an amateur scientist, helped preserve Texas Prehistory. His records and collection of artifacts from McFaddin Beach are permanently curated at the Texas Archeological Research Laboratory in Austin. Some of his personal finds were also donated to the Jefferson County Historical Commission archives.

Paul, a quiet gentle man, will be greatly missed.

Many thanks to JCHC member Brenda Jackson, Volunteer Archeological Steward, for her hard work in putting the mini-museum exhibit together which includes photos of Paul with his collections and documentation of his many archeology finds on McFaddin Beach.

The exhibit will be on display until the restoration of the first floor of the courthouse gets underway.
